

Like all buildings, this one needs maintenance. Dextre, the Space Station robot, makes sure that the astronauts inside have clean air, light and pressure by fixing replaceable parts on the outside of the floating lab.

